CONSULTING PROJECTS

I have served as an expert witness in several state and federal election-related disputes, including cases in Colorado, Missouri, New Hampshire, New Jersey and Washington, DC; I have also provided expert testimony on election administration to two US Congressional committees.

I have designed and conducted evaluation studies on the following topics: i) cross-ownership of broadcast television stations and local newspapers (for the Federal Communication Commission); ii) medical case management workers in migrant farming communities (Legal Aid of Western Missouri), iii) internet assisted learning (University of Missouri), and iv) the cost of undergraduate and graduate instruction (for the University of Missouri). I have also advised corporate clients on the economic consequences of changes in state alcohol regulations (through the Gerson Lehrman Group).
