Why Economics?

Economics is everywhere. The terms may be new, but you have been dealing with economic factors your whole life. In Microeconomics, we will look at how businesses and individuals make decisions. Economists are concerned with making the most efficient choices with scarce resources—our wants always exceed our means. You have been making choices, giving up your second-best option, since you were a kid. We will see here as well how businesses that you deal with every day (be thinking about a favorite business that you can use to discuss in the discussions!) make choices on what to produce and how much to produce.

Goals of the Course:

This course introduces Microeconomics, the study of decision-making processes of households and firms. Students will learn about how and why businesses and individuals make economic decisions. In the first part of this course, students will become familiar with the workings of markets and how interventions impact the markets, such as price controls, quotas, taxes, and subsidies. The second part of this course examines different sources of market failure and associated public policies. A focus on economic thinking, on how aiming for the most efficient use of scarce resources, will frame the topics covered.

Diversity Intensive Requirement:

This course satisfies the DI requirement for students in the College of Arts and Sciences by intentionally and intensively focusing on 1) how markets and government policy interventions in markets affect the well-being of different groups (i.e., workers, consumers, investors, rich and poor), 2) the causes of differential economic outcomes across groups, including patterns of poverty and inequality in the United States, and 3) critically evaluating differing perspectives on policy options aimed at alleviating these disparities.

TEXT

The textbook in this course is Cowen and Tabarrok, Modern Principles: Microeconomics 5E. In addition, we will be making extensive use of learning software aligned with the textbook called Achieve.

COURSE CONTENT

Econ. 1014 is a one semester survey of the principles of microeconomics.

Short lectures by the textbook authors on topics in each chapter are also available here:

COURSE FORMAT

This course will consist of the following components:

Chapter Notes

Each week, notes and other instructional materials for the required chapters will become available on Monday morning. Please follow your weekly module. Please be sure you are checking announcements. I will post at least one announcement each week early in the week.

Chapter Homework Problems and Learning Curve

Upon completion of the LearningCurve activities (only one point each, more for the practice and familiarity of the concepts), the next graded task is to complete the chapter homework problems. Links will be in the weekly module.

Discussions

We will have discussions every week. You are expected to create an initial discussion post by Thursday of each week. Your posts are to be researched, referenced, and substantive. Please aim for about two to three paragraphs of content. Pay close attention to the discussion instructions. You are also expected to reply to at least two classmates by Sunday each week. Your responses should be about a paragraph in length aiming to further the conversation on the topics. A rubric will be used for grading the discussion. Please check out the feedback in the rubric area.

During week one, please post in the discussion titled "Introduction." Please also note the discussion called "Course Questions." This is where you should post all general questions regarding the course material, assignments, etc. This is also where homework questions can be asked. I also encourage students to respond directly to other student questions. Not only does this help out your fellow classmates, but it is also a great way to obtain a higher-level understanding of the course material.

Exams

There will be two exams in this course – one during the fourth week of the course and another during the eighth week of the course (Note that the final week ends on FRIDAY rather than Sunday). The first exam will cover chapters 1-10, while the second exam will cover chapters 11-20. Once accessed, each exam allows two hours for completion. YOU MUST COMPLETE THE EXAM IN ONE SITTING (you cannot save and pick-up where you left off later), so make sure to block off enough time to complete it.

GRADING

Your course grade will be based on 2 exams, 20 chapter homework assignments (one for each chapter), 8 weekly discussions, and 20 LearningCurve exercises.

ADMINISTRATIVE MATTERS

ACADEMIC INTEGRITY

Academic integrity is fundamental to the activities and principles of a university. All members of the academic community must be confident that each person's work has been responsibly and honorably acquired, developed, and presented. Any effort to gain an advantage not given to all students is dishonest whether or not the effort is successful. The academic community regards breaches of the academic integrity rules as extremely serious matters.

Standard of Conduct for Academic Integrity

In addition, students are expected to adhere to this honor pledge on all graded work whether or not they are explicitly asked in advance to do so: “I strive to uphold the University values of respect, responsibility, discovery, and excellence. On my honor, I pledge that I have neither given nor received unauthorized assistance on this work.”

STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES

If you anticipate barriers related to the format or requirements of this course, if you have emergency medical information to share with me, or if you need to make arrangements in case the building must be evacuated, please let me know as soon as possible.

If disability related accommodations are necessary (for example, a note taker, extended time on exams, captioning), please establish an accommodation plan with the MU Disability Center, S5 Memorial Union, 573- 882-4696, and then notify me of your eligibility for reasonable accommodations. EXECUTIVE ORDER NO. 38

When you record something that happens in a course (a lecture, class discussions, meetings, etc.) it has an impact on the rights of the people captured in that recording. For example, your instructor and the University may have rights to the intellectual property contained in that recording. At the same time, another student who may have been recorded has the right to privacy. In order to protect these rights, MU employs a policy (called “Executive Order No. 38”) to govern both situations you may encounter while taking a course--when your instructor allows recordings and when he or she does not allow them.

FERPA

The University of Missouri maintains educational records of students in accordance with the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974 (FERPA). LAST DATE OF ATTENDANCE AND IMPACT ON FINANCIAL AID

Federal regulations for financial aid require the student financial aid office to document the attendance of students who have received federal financial aid if they do not successfully complete any courses during the term. As a result, the last day of attendance (or activity) for any student receiving an F, U, or FN in this course will be recorded in the grade roster and reported to the financial aid office. Based on the last day of attendance, students may be required to repay a portion of their financial aid award for the semester.

A student's last day of attendance (or activity) is the last day on which a student participates in an academically-related activity at the University. These include:

- Attendance in class, lab, or an instructor's office hours
- The completion of an assignment or examination
- An appointment with a professor or e-mail correspondence regarding course material
- (Online courses only) For online courses, the last day a student submits an assignment or exam. Only logging into an online class without participating is not acceptable for last day of attendance

Please note that discussing a course withdrawal or notifying the instructor of an absence in class does not constitute participation for financial aid purposes. Moreover, any office hour visits or email correspondence must be related to the course material.

NETIQUETTE

Your instructor and fellow students wish to foster a safe online learning environment. All opinions and experiences, no matter how different or controversial they may be perceived, must be respected in the tolerant spirit of academic discourse. You are encouraged to comment, question, or critique an idea but you are not to attack an individual. Our differences, some of which are outlined in the University's nondiscrimination statement, will add richness to this learning experience. Please consider that sarcasm and humor can be misconstrued in online interactions and generate unintended disruptions. Working as a community of learners, we can build a polite and respectful course ambiance.

RELIGIOUS HOLIDAYS & ACCOMMODATIONS

Many religious faiths are represented in the student body. The University of Missouri does not restrict student free exercise of religion, unless 1) the restriction is in the form of a rule of general applicability, and does not discriminate against religion or among religions; and 2) it can be demonstrated that the application of the restriction is essential to furthering a compelling university interest, and is not unduly restrictive considering the relevant circumstance. The policy of the University attempts to strike a reasonable balance between accommodating the religious practice of students and meeting academic needs and standard.

Consult IDE's Guide to Religions for the form that can be used to notify an instructor of an absence associated with religious practice. Students are expected to notify their instructor(s) by completing and submitting this form in a manner that is consistent with the procedure outlined in the university's policy on student religious accommodation. Providing false information regarding sincerely held religious practice is a violation of the university's Standard of Conduct and will not be tolerated.
